WRA Applauds Choice of Jim Lochhead to Lead Denver Water

Regarding today's announcement of Jim Lochhead as CEO/ Manager of Denver Water, Western Resource Advocates Water Program Director Bart Miller released the following statement:

"Western Resource Advocates welcomes the announcement of Jim Lochhead as the next head of Denver Water. Mr. Lochhead is extremely knowledgeable and well-respected around Colorado and around the West. His wealth of experience working to diplomatically resolve contentious water disputes makes him uniquely qualified for his new post. He will bring a steady hand and level head to this important position.

By selecting a current West Slope resident to head its agency, Denver Water chose a leader who understands the statewide repercussions of Denver Water's decisions. Western Resource Advocates looks forward to working with Mr. Lochhead as Denver Water continues to improve its conservation programs, water supply planning, and role as a leader to help resolve water issues statewide. "
